Post performed well due to the exciting shot of the president of Texas State. As the reach was the best, it was certainly the top performing post. Using the president of Texas State is a great way of showing the face of the university as well as having him pose on a motorcycle is both action-oriented and engaging.

President Kelly and First Lady Beth Damphousse announced a new scholarship for first-generation students. Advocating for social change shows university values helping and including everyone. Using tools to find the best time to post (Oct. 5) with a colorful and friendly picture helped make this tweet the most successful.
